THE funeral of Mark Duggan – the man whose shooting by police was the catalyst for the riot in Tottenham last month – took place last Friday.

Hundreds attended the service for the father-of-four at New Testament Church Of God, in Arcadian Gardens, Wood Green.

A white horse-drawn carriage took the coffin from the 29-year-old's parents' home in Broadwater Farm to the church and later to Wood Green Cemetery, in Wolves Lane.

Two days after Mr Duggan's death his family and friends protested outside Tottenham police station, calling for more information about the circumstances of the shooting. The incident is being investigated by the Independent Police Complaints Commission.

Initially it was suggested that Mr Duggan had been involved in a shoot-out with officers; but ballistics tests revealed that a bullet lodged in a police officer's radio was police issue.

However, a weapon not belonging to the police was recovered from the scene in Ferry Lane.

After the family protest ended the first bout of rioting began, leaving many homeless after flats above shops were destroyed by fire.

Prior to the funeral the Duggan family said they had little faith in the IPCC investigation and urged more witnesses to come forward.

Mr Duggan's partner, Semone Wilson, paid tribute to her "first real love" during the funeral. The eulogy read out by her sister said: "Mark, my love, my friend and father of my children, my first real love – we laughed together, we cried together, we faced trials and tribulations together.

"We had our ups and downs but through it all, I loved him."

The inquest into Mr Duggan's death has been adjourned until December 12.

Getting stuck in: Volunteers from all over London descended on Tottenham Marshes to begin a week-long clean-up

Marshes sparkling after big clean-up

By Raziye Akkoc

VOLUNTEERS have come out in full force to clean up Tottenham Marshes.

The annual "deep clean" started the second round of the Mayor of London's Capital Clean-Up campaign.

Nearly 200 volunteers cleared scrubland and collected litter last week, opening up the woodland areas of the Marshes. In June nearly 2,000 of the capital's residents cleaned public areas, including parks and graffiti, in more than 20 boroughs.

Martin Page, green space manager for Lee Valley Park, said: "This conservation work is a fantastic example of how communities can come together to maintain better spaces for each other to enjoy and take pride in their community.

"Tottenham Marshes is now firmly rooted in the community as a well-loved urban space, used for walking, cycling, running and even canoeing along the River Lea."

The clean-up also attracted the help of the Mormons, who have incorporated the Capital Clean-Up into their yearly programme of service, Helping Hands.

Capital Clean-Up is a drive to get the city clean in time for next year's Olympic and Paralympic Games, run in partnership with London's councils and Keep Britain Tidy.

For more information on how to get involved in the clean-up operation, visit www.london.gov.uk/capitalclean-up.

Heart op to beat rare condition puts Sid back in martial arts dojo

By Daniel O'Brien

A KUNG FU teacher from Tottenham who gained 27 stone after his rare heart condition went undiagnosed for a year has been saved by a doctor at the Royal Free Hospital.

Sid Sofos, spent eight months confined to his home due to the water retention caused by his condition. It eventually became so severe that he was unable to move.

The father-of-one spent a year searching for a solution. "I saw various doctors and they couldn't give me a diagnosis. It just got worse and worse," he said.

"By April this year I couldn't walk. I couldn't even move. It was unbearable, especially as I was so active before."

When his condition worsened, the 47-year-old was taken to the Royal Free Hospital in Pond Street, Hampstead.

There, cardiologist Dr Joseph Davar diagnosed him with constrictive pericarditis – an inflammation of the sac-like covering of the heart.

"I was at such a low ebb," said Sid, who has trained with Lennox Lewis and Steven Seagal, and has a martial arts school in Tottenham. "I thought I wasn't going to be able to watch my son grow up."

Sid underwent surgery to remove the outer layer of his heart at St Bart's Hospital and returned to the Royal Free to recover. He lost 12 stone in fluid in less than a month and is once again practising kung fu.

As a token of his gratitude on Monday Sid presented Dr Davar with a Chinese statue. Dr Davar said the statue would take pride of place in his office.

"It gives me a great sense of satisfaction to know that I've made such a difference to someone's life," said the surgeon.

"I'd like to thank Sid for his thoughtful gift." He added: "Constrictive pericarditis is a rare condition – I have only seen a handful of cases in my 17 years at the Royal Free."

On track: the new bike park at Lordship Recreation Ground has been welcomed by keen bikers such as Daniel Mintz

Volunteers sought to help at new bike park

By Abigail Young-Powell

BMX and mountain bikers will be able to use a new bike park that is set to open in Tottenham this autumn.

The Lordship Loop Park, within the Lordship Recreation Ground, is nearing completion and should be open by the end of October. However, organisers say that volunteers must step forward if the facility is to become a success.

The park off Lordship Lane has been commissioned by Haringey Council, which collaborated with off-road cycling club The Trax and mountain biking champion Rowan Sorrell to put together the design.

The park covers a looped distance of 391 metres and is made using recycled materials, with step-up jumps suitable for beginners and more challenging heights for experienced riders.

A local youth club for eight to 16-year-olds run by The Trax will be able to use the park frequently. Daniel Mintz, chairman of The Trax, has been a keen mountain biker all of his life and believes that the park will provide something for inner-city teenagers to do.

The park – part of a £7million regeneration of Lordship Recreation Ground – will need volunteers to help run and maintain it, and Daniel has encouraged people to get involved with the project.

He said: "We can make this not just an amazing local community resource for Tottenham, but even a blueprint for other parks around London and beyond."

Volunteering opportunities are available in maintenance, coaching local children, running and marshalling competitions as well as fundraising.

For more details on how to volunteer, go to www.thetrax.co.uk

New head of children's services pays tribute to her 'talented team' as Haringey looks to move on from Baby P tragedy

A FORMER social worker is set to become the new director of children's services in Haringey – three years after Sharon Shoesmith was sacked.

Libby Blake is set to join Haringey Council in November from Kensington and Chelsea, where she was acting executive director for family and children's services.

Ms Shoesmith was removed from her job by Ed Balls in the wake of the Baby P tragedy, with Peter Lewis being parachuted in on a three-year contract to clean up the much-reviled department.

Ms Blake will be earning an annual salary of £150,000 in her new role – though this is significantly less than the £200,000 a year that her immediate predecessor was earning. According to a council statement, Mr Lewis' salary was decided by the former Secretary of State, Mr Balls, and that given the current financial climate it was felt that it would be unreasonable to continue to pay such a high salary.

Mr Lewis will continue to be paid by the council until the end of December.

Ms Blake said: "I look forward to working with what I know to be a talented team in shaping the future of children's services in Haringey. The service has much improved under Peter Lewis' direction and I aim to build on this firm foundation."

Before her time at Kensington and Chelsea, she spent 13 years in Lambeth working in a variety of specialist child protection and management roles.

Kevin Crompton, Haringey's chief executive, said: "Libby's experience and career to date shows that she is more than capable of delivering the very best services for children and families in the borough."

Lorna Reith, cabinet member for children's services, said: "Key elements of our children's services have made significant progress over the past two and a half years. I look forward to working with Libby Blake to deliver on our commitment to make Haringey children's services among the very best in the country."

In May a High Court judge ruled that Ms Shoesmith had been denied a fair hearing when she was dismissed from her post. However, he refused to quash a damning Ofsted report into her department.

Curtain's up for a Hollywood catfight

IF YOU'RE seeking salvation from the bland summer blockbuster just rent a copy of What Ever Happened To Baby Jane? on DVD this weekend.

One of the strangest movies ever to win an Academy Award, it is a slice of deranged modern gothic featuring two of the greatest Hollywood actresses, Bette Davis and Joan Crawford, literally tearing each other to pieces.

But what's ensured the passage of Baby Jane into legend is the fact that in this, their only film together, the two stars virtually replicated their deep-rooted loathing off camera in the most bitter catfight in cinematic history.

"It got so bad that Joan Crawford campaigned against her co-star winning an Oscar for her nominated role!" said Sarah Thom. "And, when it did go to Anne Bancroft, Crawford went up stage to collect it on her behalf. But Davis gave as good as she got and always had the better one-liners such as, 'Joan Crawford slept with every male star at MGM except Lassie!'"

Taking this famous feud from screen to stage Sarah and the cre-

"It's the last moments of her life and there are these Hollywood gossip columnists in Heaven who decide to send down Joan Crawford to fetch Bette to the other side," said Sarah, who plays the dying diva. "And who would you least like to see when you are about to die? Your arch-enemy!"

Ristorante Genco, 60 Chase Side, Southgate 020 8882 0707

COUSINS Angelo and Emilio are keeping it in the family with Ristorante Genco, a new Italian restaurant in Southgate.

After a successful opening party at which celebrity chef Gino D'Acampo made an appearance, the restaurant has been doing well. "We have been busy!" Angelo exclaimed.

Step inside the restaurant and the first thing you notice is its unusual décor. Genco looks both sophisticated and welcoming.

It combines white tablecloths and Italian paintings in a way that suggests quality dining and home-cooked food.

"We wanted Genco to be a cross between our two previous restaurants in Hampstead and Potters Bar," Angelo said. "So it's both classic and modern in its layout and in its food. We love this mix-and-match style."

The food includes a good selection of risottos, pastas and salads. Emilio refuses to reveal his secret ingredients but does insist that all of the produce is fresh.

With a menu that combines unusual recipes such as salsiccia piccante (the cousins' own take on sausage and mash, costing £11), and traditional Italian dishes, there is something for everyone.

Emilio draws my attention to the back of the menu, which says: "The trouble with Italian food is that after five or six days you're hungry again." The boys have taken this to heart and the portion sizes do not disappoint – they are large, without sacrificing quality.

Particular recommendations are the lamb, cooked to perfection, and the capesante e spinaci (king scallops in garlic butter – £8.90), which is also delicious.

The prices are reasonable for such good-quality food, with most dishes under £10. They do pre-dinner nibbles for around £3, antipasti starters

LEDLEY HAILED

By Dominique Stafford

LEDLEY KING was praised by manager Harry Redknapp after playing a key role in helping Tottenham Hotspur to finally kick-start their Premier League campaign at Wolves on Saturday.

The injury-plagued centre back made his first appearance of the season after recovering from knee surgery and was a rock at the heart of Spurs' defence as they claimed a 2-0 win which saw them climb off the foot of the table.

"Ledley's an amazing player, one of the best centre-halves you'll ever see," Redknapp said. "He hasn't trained or kicked a ball, but it's no coincidence that he comes back into the side and we win 2-0."

"He is different class, he gives an air of confidence and knows what he is doing. People around Ledley respond to him."

"He doesn't make too many last-ditch tackles because he is already in position to deal with it."

"Like the Bobby Moores and Alan Hansens over the years, they understand what they are doing – and that's what he does."

Saturday's match saw on-loan striker Emmanuel Adebayor open the scoring on his debut, before Jermain Defoe added the second to seal victory.

And Redknapp was also full of praise for the efforts of Adebayor and fellow debutant Scott Parker.

"I was delighted with Emmanuel," he added. "He held the ball up, brought people into play and kept the ball. Playing him up front with Jermain looks like it has the makings of a good partnership."

"Scott gave us so much in midfield. He controlled it for us, got his tackles in and broke up attacks."

"Scott's not just a good player but also a top-class professional. He knows what you are trying to do, he understands the game, can read the game and pulls players into position."

"It was great to win, but it was always only going to be a matter of time. We've got a good team and we'll be right up there again at the end of the season."

Borough battle back to claim a deserved draw

HARINGEY BOROUGH continued their encouraging start to the Spartan Premier League season by twice coming from behind to secure a 2-2 draw at Oxhey Jets on Saturday.

Borough made most of the early running, but they fell behind against the run of play on 24 minutes when an unchallenged Lee Inch headed home at the far post.

However, the visitors were back on level terms in fortunate fashion six minutes later as an attempted clearance hit Darrell Cox, looped high into the air and dropped into the net.

Oxhey went back ahead on 34 minutes as the Borough defence were caught out by a quickly taken corner and Anthony Shepherd had plenty of time and space to stab the ball into the net from close range.

Borough dominated after this, only to be continually thwarted by the hugely impressive Oxhey keeper Mark Jessop.

The visitors were eventually rewarded for their efforts on 76 minutes when Cox latched on to Cedric Lakole's low cross and scored with a sweetly struck volley from just inside the box.

The draw leaves Borough in ninth place, but they are only three points adrift of fourth and have played fewer games than all but one of the sides above them.

Haringey Borough, who were due to host St Margaretsbury last night, visit Royston Town in the Premier Division Cup on Tuesday (7.45pm).

Could you look after me?

A wide range of children and young people need someone to look after them.

Supported Fostering Services (SFS) is a registered charity working in your community supporting people like you to offer children and young people a better start in life.

Rated ‘Outstanding’ by Ofsted SFS has a qualified social work team to offer guidance and support 24 hours a day. The comprehensive training programme helps carers draw on their life experiences and develop new skills to meet the needs of children in the care system.

Fostering can be a rewarding and challenging experience helping children and young people grow and develop to their full potential. There are many different types of fostering so whether you’re a single person, a couple or larger family someone needs your help. A generous weekly allowance of £385 is paid for each child.

Carers are being recruited in your area right now. For more information and an informal chat call today or check out the website.

Stacey was 18 when she gave birth to Troy. She couldn't stay at home and as a young mum needs support and guidance as she learns to look after Troy. SFS offers training for carers to help young people like Stacey develop their parenting skills and assess shortfalls.

Leon and Letisha need a family so they can live together. Their birth parents have some problems at home and can't look after them properly right now. The children need a safe caring home until they either return home or are fostered permanently.

Tim is 7 years old and has a learning disability so he can often find it difficult to concentrate for long. He attends a special needs school locally. He needs carers who have an interest or experience of a learning disability within their family or from their work.

Kris is 14 years old and needs a family who are able to listen and understand what's going on for him. He has missed quite a lot of school but with help and support should be able to catch up. He struggles to accept boundaries and curfews but is making steady progress.

Can you care for a disabled child?

'Witnessing a child with complex needs respond positively to family routines and structure that's the biggest positive.'

Jackie, SFS Foster Carer

Some disabled children are not able to live at home with their birth families. For many reasons these children require a foster family, who can support and encourage them to reach their potential and live a fulfilling and rewarding life.

Fostering a disabled child can be very challenging. Some children have a range of special needs including a learning disability, autism, a physical disability or health care needs. These children need foster carers with special skills who can help them develop and acquire new skills! The rewards can be huge.

We are particularly interested in people who have experience in the disability field, with family members or in work. As well as people with a nursing or medical background.

SFS provides 24 hour support for any problems or issues that occur outside of office hours and a comprehensive training program.

Many people do not have the time to be a full time foster carer but have space in their lives to provide shared care. SFS runs a shortbreak/shared care placement scheme supporting carer's who provide regular respite.

Some disabled children require a carer who can look after them at weekends or during school holidays to give their parents a break but more importantly give them opportunities to explore new activities, help them develop their independence and to make friends.

Fostering allowances and benefits vary. Supported Fostering Services offers a weekly allowance between £385 and £770 per child, pro rata for respite carers.

To find out more about fostering a disabled child or becoming a shortbreak carer please contact us or drop in at our open day.
